SouthCoast Recovery currently offer multiple levels of treatment for young adults with chemical dependency and/or emotional challenges and their families. Prior to beginning treatment each youth receives a comprehensive clinical assessment to determine which level of care is most appropriate. Upon acceptance into a treatment program, each client is provided with an individualized treatment plan. This plan will include the anticipated duration of treatment for each individual at any level of care. Each treatment plan is developed by the patient's treatment team in conjunction with the patient and the patient's family.
